The situation: I am developing a quick'n'dirty Multiplayer game with many entities using Unity3D, C# and UnityScript. What I want to do: I'd like to make the life of the guy that initiates the game easier by providing an AI for most of the entities in the game. I thought this would be quite easy, because I'm used to making scripts for simple AIs, so I did not find any difficulties. What I did: My AI script: public class AI : MonoBehaviour { GameController _gameController; private Monster _creature; public float LastUpdate; public string[] MonsterSpecies; public string[] MonsterFamilies; // Use this for initialization void Start () { // _gameController = GameController.Instance; _creature = GameObject.Find("Monster").GetComponent(); } // Update is called once per frame void Update () { // Set the last update time (time between updates) LastUpdate += Time.deltaTime; if(LastUpdate > 1.0f)
