Thermal ablation of colorectal liver metastases (CLM) has been shown to be a safe and effective therapy option in selected cases. It is discussed controversially whether this intervention can be performed as a stand alone therapy option or has to be associated with resection. In a retrospective analysis of our experiences and of the literature we investigated whether thermal ablation is an option as a stand-alone therapy. In colorectal liver metastases, 60 to 80% of all patients need palliative therapy. Thermal ablation can be performed as stand alone therapy or in combination with resection or chemotherapy. The most effective thermal ablative agents to date are focused ultrasound and radiofrequency ab 09e8f5149f

The event, which is expected to attract over 30,000 visitors, will be held along the shores of the South Australian coast and will feature the largest number of international competitors, triathletes and athletes in South Australia. The inaugural event will consist of six rounds of racing over a six-week period that will see athletes travel from all over the globe, with Australians and others from New Zealand, USA, Canada, Japan, Taiwan, South Korea, China and Europe all entering the race. "We are extremely excited to be welcoming up to 30,000 visitors to enjoy this flagship Australian-first event next year," GARC President Philip Leach said. "It's an event the whole of Australia is talking about and we are hoping to see the entire country come together to support the athletes in what is set to be a landmark day in the history of Australian Triathlon." The K1X series will feature an undulating but flat course along the east coast of the state and will feature a rolling start line with the first half of the course through the Adelaide CBD. A series of intermediate checkpoints will be placed along the course and checkpoints will be strategically located to reduce the distance between venues and improve spectator flow. The event will be opened by world champion Australian triathlete Bronte McCubbin. The South Australian Government along with Sport and Recreation SA and the South Australian Tourism Commission have formed a partnership to promote and raise awareness of the race during the lead-up to the event. "The inaugural K1X South Australian race is set to be a world-class, long-distance race along the shores of South Australia's unique coastline. "We are excited to support the event and work with GARC to showcase the incredible range of local destinations
