== Create Keyed Folders with the DOS Create Folder Command SYNOPSIS:
== Create Folder D:\mykeyedfolders Create folder in current folder D:\mykeyedfolders Create folder in specified folder D:\mykeyedfolders Create folder and name it D:\mykeyedfolders Create folder in specified folder and name it D:\mykeyedfolders Parameters
== This application allows the user to create keyed folders and folders in the current directory as well as in the specified directory. It is important to note that if either of the two check boxes for separate by month or by year are checked for format is forced as yyyyMMdd. Main window has 4 main sections - Addressbook, Keys, Folding parameters, and Info.

=== When the application is first launched, the Address Book window appears. A single contact can be added to this window using the menu option - Add - Contact. One of the main features of the Add Contact button is that it allows the contact to be saved to the User's profile folder. By default, the selected contact is being saved to the profile folder, however, the user can manually change the location of the contact using the Set Contact As - Folder Option. When the user is ready to create a new keyed folder, the user must first determine which folder to save the folder to. The application will generate the name of the folder automatically based on the selected folder and the options that were selected. It is important to note that if either of the two check boxes for separate by month or by year are checked for format is forced as yyyyMMdd. Once the folder has been created, the user is ready to begin creating folders. There are 4 different methods of creating folders that can be chosen by the user. These options are - Add the folder to the folder specified in the Add folder to window, Add the folder to the current folder, Create a folder and name it, and Create a folder and name it as specified in the Add folder to window. After the folder has been created, the user can change the appearance of the new folder using the Options window. This will allow the user to alter the name, the level of the folder, the color, etc. The main window will then update and display the new folder. The creation of folders is quick and the user can have a large number of folders created in a short period of time. This application does not support any advanced features like recursive folders or folders with files added. Once all of the folders have been created, the user
