KeyMacro is a simple application that allows you to assign keyboard shortcuts. In other words, it is like a universal keyboard logger that allows you to assign custom keyboard shortcuts. These shortcuts can be associated with applications, functions, etc. You can also use the program to find out the actual shortcut assigned to a particular key. Assign keyboard shortcuts to custom actions It comes with a free trial that allows you to customize as many shortcuts as you want. Then, when you purchase the software, you can have as many shortcuts as you want for free. Create your own script With this program, you can create your own scripts that can be assigned to a key. Once you create your script, you can name it and assign a key combination or enter a command. For example, if you want to set a shortcut that will open a new window with the filename in the working directory, you can simply create a script that will look like this: `cd %1` Save it to any folder. Then, once you want to use it, simply press the corresponding key combination you created. The program will remember the new shortcut after the next reboot. Remove all shortcuts One of the greatest features of KeyMacro is that you can remove any previously assigned shortcuts. You will find the option to do so in the shortcut list. This allows you to try different combinations and find out which ones work the best for you. Use F2 for context-specific search Another feature of this program is that you can use it as a F2-based search utility. If you want to look up a particular application, you can enter its name and press F2. The list of applications will be presented. Then, you can choose the one you want and press Enter. In the future, the program might even support more search methods, such as downloading the app's description from the store. On the downside, it doesn't seem to support regex or a special option to look for files. Set the countdown timer for keeping the PC awake A handy function of this utility is that it includes a timer that allows you to choose for how long you want the PC to stay awake. In other words, you simply enter the number of hours, minutes, and seconds and then start the timer and you are done.
