1. PC SMS Gateway Server is an advanced utility designed to make it as straightforward as possible for you to send scores of SMS messages with the help of your computer and multiple connected GSM devices. This, alongside with its SMS Auto Reply feature, makes it ideal for users who need to start GSM-based advertising services. Install the app, connect and configure the GSM devices and start sending texts Getting started with this application is relatively simple, particularly as it undergoes a typical and surprise-free installation process. Finding your way around PC SMS Gateway Server does not require a great deal of computer experience. Once launched, the first thing you should attend to is the GSM device configuration. Next, you should start to create a new subscription base. Head over to the Phonebook section and create new contacts or import them from Excel files, and thoroughly organize them in groups. Create and schedule SMS tasks with no more than a few mouse clicks The same goes for the SMS sections as you can similarly import SMS from Excel files as well as create new SMS Outbox categories. If the GSM device has been properly configured, then you should be able to add new SMS Tasks and Even Tasks. Quite noteworthy is the fact that this piece of software makes it possible for you to conveniently send texts at any scheduled intervals. Features integration with SMSgee Database This said, you can create a new task, choose its type (Event, Interval, and Scheduled), use message keyword, sender or device-based filters, and make a choice between "Task Send SMS" and "Task Execute SQL" from the appropriate section.

A letter we've sent CEO's to discover their Internet security - asmus ===== aaronbrethorst It's depressing to find out that our idea of security is pretty limited. "Anybody can steal my stuff if they have to" is the #1 thing of security to most people. ~~~ asimjalis I don't think the people who are contributing to open source are in the business of selling software. They've made so much money from open source that they've built their own business on that. In contrast, all the big companies that are selling ad-

supported browsers, web mail, and ad-supported services make a ton of money. ----- gaius
I wouldn't worry about this, as long as they're not doing anything it's not your problem. See
