For the SW2-N-SiConverter-S we designed a new converter circuit for the IC we are using. The new converter supplies up to 1.2 mA into the input and has a nominal output resistance of 1.2 MΩ with a common-mode input noise level of 30 μVrms. The SW2-N-SiConverter-S is optimized for RF-input signals at 1-8 GHz using a 0.5 dB gain setting. The SW2-N-SiConverter-S has a dedicated power supply connector that can be used to supply the power for both the input circuit and the signal path. The signal path includes external connections for four analog input channels, and an onboard 64-bit A/D converter. The SW2-N-SiConverter-S is recommended for applications needing minimal external shielding.
