Sericin is an α-keratinaceous biopolymer secreted by the silk glands of various insects. Here, we develop novel porous sericin hydrogel coatings (Ps-Gs) as versatile scaffolds for cell-based biofabrication. The porosity of the coatings can be precisely controlled from 25 to 90%, and their hydrophilicity makes them highly amenable to cell adhesion and cell growth. Furthermore, their morphological and structural properties facilitate the development of microenvironments that enhance cell-material interaction. Scaffolds containing seeding cells are readily sterilized in a gas plasma and exhibit higher adhesion strength than conventional poly(lactic-co-glycolic acid) (PLGA) scaffolds in vitro. Additionally, a 1:1 seeding ratio of endothelial cells to MSCs in vitro shows the highest viability at 37 °C and facilitated angiogenesis. Furthermore, after subcutaneous transplantation into mice, the coating grafts induce angiogenic signaling and vascularization, which are comparable to PLGA grafts. Taken together, these characteristics make the Ps-Gs promising scaffolds for high-quality and reproducible cell-based biofabrication.Viroq Viroq (also written as Virgo, Virgoc, Wiroq, Virgoc and Virgocz) is a village in the İzmir Province of Turkey, located in the western neighborhood of Çavuştepe, a part of Çavuştepe township. Guido van Nooten: We are looking into a problem with a lot of companies that have lot of duplicate products. So, we are looking at that, but also we are looking at a problem with the single product line that is not represented correctly in the portal, or at least most of them are not represented correctly in the portal. Peter van den Bosch: OK, so how long does it take? You're looking at very high volumes of data, I assume. Guido van Nooten: This is all new for us, so we are looking at a new solution. And then we're looking at possibly the idea of using the information from the e24f408de9
