Aurora has a dedicated team of professional lighting designers who. Architectural lighting Dynamic BTL (power plant) lighting works as follows: at night, at night, in the absence of visibility and in conditions of limited visibility, outdoor. When designing architectural lighting, it must be remembered that the light fluxes must merge with the base background, and any smooth transitions, for example, from horizontal to vertical and vice versa, must be done at the end of the illuminated surface. Specialists of the company "Standardproekt" will help you to bring all your ideas to life. Using dynamic lighting, you can highlight various lighting elements, creating a kind of three-dimensional effect. Thanks to thoughtful schemes and numerous options for placing dynamic light sources, you can highlight significant architectural elements, the most spectacular corners of an interior or landscape design. It is also important that we not only design, but also implement architectural (designer) lighting projects and other lighting solutions, taking into account the whole variety of architectural lighting.
