Vue 11 xStream - Software as a Service (SaaS) for CG. or a 32-bit x86 or x64 Windows® 7 with e-on software.. about the way the Crack software works,. Eon Vue 9.5 Xstream. .The present invention relates to compositions and methods for providing water repellent coatings. More particularly, the present invention relates to water repellent compositions and methods in which a non-resin component, such as a titanate compound, is combined with an acrylic monomer and a crosslinkable coreactive polymer to form a polymeric coating that is cured at room temperature, and provides good resistance to blistering, among other desirable characteristics.

As the use of vinyl articles becomes more prevalent, particularly in outdoor environments, there has been an ever increasing need to develop protective surfaces for such articles. The development of petroleum based paints and similar materials has not met the specific needs for outdoor applications. Such paints are characterized by high costs, and lack of durability when exposed to outdoor elements. A product that overcomes these disadvantages would be a welcome improvement. Most water repellent coatings require a two part cure system. In a first step, the water repellent coating is applied to the substrate. Subsequently, the coated article is heat cured to form the coating.

However, this approach requires a special oven to accommodate the two part cure. Titanium dioxide based paint compositions are disclosed in U.S. Pat. Nos. 4,274,853 and 4,262,015. These paints are based on titanium dioxide combined with polycarboxylic acid, and optionally a resin additive. The present invention relates to a coating composition for protecting surfaces from contact with water, comprising: (a)
