. Free Indian Porn Comics - www.adultindia.in Posted by : admin From the idea of a comic to the design of a graphic is an amazing part of creating a good piece of work. However, what is not appreciated enough is the effort that goes behind the design. It is not always quite easy to notice that the aesthetic design is not just added on a quick sketch of the comic while he is thought of being too busy to put some thought on the image. Let's not underestimate the designers and the pain they go through to bring out a good design. In order to appreciate the art of the designers, we have listed five things you must know about graphic design: 1) The designer must know how to use colors There are several things the designer has to do when using colors. First of all, he must have a perfect understanding of the colors. He must know the characteristics of those colors and must know how much of each color they require. Furthermore, the designer must know how to use colors to create an effect. The designer should use light colors as a contrast to show things that are light and dark or heavy and light. For example, if the web page is supposed to be dark, the light colors should be used as a contrast in order to make it lighter in color. This works for both large and small fonts or sizes. The colors should be able to communicate the intended message. 2) The designer must have an understanding of typography. Typography is one of the most important parts of the design that should be understood. The designer should have an idea about the most suitable font for the specific page that he is creating. Furthermore, the designer must know how the font is used in a specific context such as news letters or magazine articles. He should also know how to use the font in a way that it not only suits the specific context but also stands out. Typography is also used to give prominence to the content of the particular page. It is essential to know how to use the font to emphasize the important parts of the page such as the logo and title. 3) The designer must know about coding. Coding is one of the most important things a designer should know. Coding is a tool that is used to animate the pages. There are several ways to use coding, including using special effects. The importance of knowing the coding is not only limited to web pages. The designer must
