What's new:

(previously ProjectRace) is a space sports game from SimBin Studios. It's similar to the two GameCube titles Speed and Project Gotham Racing 2 and to the original Xbox title, OutRunners. The games creator, Kirill Gromov, has been criticized for his strange comments and growth in popularity. The second game, Project:

Gravity was in development for the PC, Xbox 360 and PS3 platforms, but the project was leaked on the internet early 2012, and expanded in scope into more features set in a fully cross-platform-compatible game. This page concerns the first game only. (b) above

Gameplay overview There are 3 races each with 15 tracks. (Sequence of race and tracks is customizable). During every race, 10 stages are available. In the first race (GTA4) you try to drive through ganga road. In the second race (GTAIV) you will be driving in a helicopter. In the third race (Project Race) you drive on a motorbike, and at the end of the race, you face in the Wild West. The races have a total of 100 finishing lines, with which you can zoom by a bonus that is provided in several areas of the game, and in some cases, it does not cause damage if you take a very high-speed wall jump. You can mount up to 100 cars for each race. There are 3 types of tracks: Corner, straight, mountain, mine, and ledge type. Corner tracks require good acceleration and quick cornering skills, while straight tracks are easier, but require good braking and acceleration. On side-wall mountain tracks, you can zoom by jumping off the wall. On mines, you must brake to a halt before doing a wall jump. Ledge tracks are either "narrow" or "wide". They differ from the other types by having 2 wall fast sections at the beginning, where you must stay away from the walls as you pass through them. In the singleplayer campaign, in all three races, there are two adversaries available: a. grand prix team (from the title), and b. head-on car. Social racing You can play the races in multiplayer too. The races are set to the clock. A "co-pilot" can be selected, and players can choose the radio channel to the player they want to listen, and can share a wireless adapter or a computer to stream and extract data. Rank
