The objective of the present study is to assess the effect of Emergency Mini-Invasive Coronary Artery Bypass Surgery (EMICAB) on postoperative mortality in patients with multivessel coronary artery disease. This retrospective observational study included 36 consecutive patients who underwent EMICAB due to acute myocardial infarction (AMI) of multivessel coronary artery disease, and were compared with a patient group with acute ST elevation myocardial infarction (STEMI) undergoing conventional coronary artery bypass graft (CABG). We evaluated the preoperative and surgical characteristics of the groups, and the postoperative complications. The mean number of grafts was 2.5 in the CABG and 2.3 in the EMICAB group, with no statistically significant differences. The incidence of postoperative complications in the EM 0cc13bf012
