What's new:

(bird) Dwayne A. G. Lee (June 22, 1958 - September 22, 1998) was a Trinidadian-American serial killer and robber. He was born in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad and Tobago, and at age 12 moved to Chicago. Eventually, he moved to Chicago's South Side. As a teenager, Lee refused to conform and racked up numerous minor criminal charges for which he was arrested several times. In October 1979, he was sentenced to four years after a felony conviction for armed robbery and was released after serving one year of his prison term. One month after his release, Lee was arrested again on a gun charge, sentenced to two years of prison and released a third time. After his sentence in the second case, the U.S. Parole Commission released Lee to Illinois Ministerial Prison Incarceration Program, a community-correctional program. Unbeknownst to Lee, the program was a boot camp for convicted criminals. He was tortured, assaulted, and otherwise abused by his fellow prisoners during his time at the program, which he was allowed to leave prematurely when he was presumed to be cured. In November 1982, a year and a half into his sentence, Lee was given another prison sentence for his crimes against a Canadian prostitute, and he served his time. In May 1983, while Lee was serving his sentence in Canada, his brother called the police saying that someone threatening to kill him had been released early by mistake. The police quickly realized their mistake as Lee began assaulting police with iron bars the moment he saw them. Two officers were shot, and a third died later due to complications from his injuries. Subsequent investigations revealed that Lee had kidnapped, raped, murdered, and mutilated at least 10 women as a teen and young adult. He was sentenced to death in January 1984. However, on August 15, 1998, his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the appeal judges. He was released in 1999 after serving less than 25 years of his sentence. He committed suicide in Cook County Jail on September 22, 1998, from an apparent heroin overdose. He was reportedly under treatment for a heroin addiction at the time of his death.

Background and criminal career Lee was born Dwayne Gittings on June 22, 1958 in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad and Tobago. He was the son of Betty Jean Gittings and James Robert "Bobby" Gittings, a tribal elder. Lee's parents separated soon after
