Atypical visceral schwannoma in the rectus sheath. Schwannomas are usually benign solitary tumours arising from a peripheral nerve sheath. They are usually sporadic and located anywhere along the length of the nerve but are most common in the head and neck area. This is the first reported case of schwannoma in the rectus sheath. A case of an incidentally detected rectus sheath tumour in a 57-year-old man is reported. The tumour was excised and the patient recovered well. The report highlights an unusual location and provides some useful information on the radiological and intraoperative appearances of this type of tumour. This invention relates generally to closure members used for various types of food containers and containers for liquid medications. More particularly, the invention relates to closures having a tamper indicating band. Various types of closures and closure members have been proposed for use in food containers and containers for liquid medications. In particular, milk bottles have been formed using closures having a single cap with a removable band. In some of the proposed designs, the band has a breakaway portion that is removed upon first opening of the closure. It is believed that the term "breakaway portion" refers to a portion of the band that is removed from the closure upon first opening of the closure. While breakaway bands provide some beneficial features, they suffer from certain shortcomings. For

In the content, I am calling my control in the Page Load event and show/hide some stuff based on what is in this control. My question is, is there a way to perform static validation on the usercontrol using such approach? A: Solved my own problem. I had a user control with a server side content editor. So, instead of adding the control to the page directly I wanted to add the server side content from the server to the user control. In the control event handler, I was validating against a separate class called OptionParser. This class is used to define the validation rules for the user control. These validation rules are performed server side. And so, in my code-behind I was able to validate the control. Here is the method where the validation is actually performed.

protected void Validate_ICSharpCode_Validate(object sender, EventArgs e) { OptionParser optParser = new OptionParser(); optParser.ParseInput(optionValue); if (optParser.IsNotValid) { ClientValidationResults errors = new ClientValidationResults(this.Page.ClientValidation
