After years of battling at the Calgary Stampede and finally losing, the Edmonton Eskimos have finally broken through, winning their first Grey Cup at home in 60 years. article continues below "It's awesome to be here. It's awesome to bring the championship to Edmonton. And it's even more awesome to do it in the same stadium where (the Stampeders) have won the Grey Cup in eight of the last nine years," said Eskimos quarterback Mike Reilly. "I think they just proved that they're the best team in Canada, and we're hoping to be the best team in the West. It's the Battle of Alberta and we're ready to face the best right now." The Eskimos beat the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 26-23 to win the CFL championship and capture the 105th Grey Cup. "We're going to enjoy this. We're going to savour this for a little bit," said Eskimos running back Andrew Harris, who scored the winning touchdown on a nine-yard dash in the fourth quarter. After four consecutive defeats at the Stampede, the Edmonton Eskimos finally won at McMahon Stadium on Sunday, November 22, 2016. Amanda Mazzola/Postmedia "It's about time.
