Important: Use an OS version that has a Microsoft Windows volume license key using the Key Management Service (KMS). KMS treats each activated clone as a computer with a newly issued license. In a production environment, you must activate Windows. In an evaluation environment, you can create the VM and log in without activating Windows. We have used Citrix cloud provisioning for running Linux OS at client side in house but for Windows OS we are planning to use VMware ESXi. So can you please tell me what is best hardware for this purpose? or any other thing which we have to think while running Windows OS at client side? We use PVS 2112 on a Windows Server 2019. After we have created a new version and then promoted it, a black screen appears during the boot process after the Windows logo is displayed and the VM no longer responds. On the PVS server, however, you can see how the vDisk (avhdx file) keeps getting bigger for a while in the background. We set the DHCP lease time to 1 day, set the CD/DVD controller to IDE and removed the SATA controller. We use VMWare version 6.7. You can use either the VMware Fusion desktop client or the VMware Fusion Server client to create a Windows VM in Horizon Cloud. VMware Fusion allows you to create a Windows VM in Horizon Cloud using the Horizon Cloud Manager, by using only a single application client. The Microsoft Azure application can be downloaded from the Microsoft Windows Azure download center. The application consists of a development tool and a management console. With the Azure application, you create a Windows VM in Horizon Cloud and manage the VM through the management console.

Provided you have selected this option, VMware has downloaded and installed a Windows Installer to an ISO image as part of the

Citrix Provisioning process. This is required for the customer to be able to install the service on the target host. You can choose to add a service account or user (which the image will be launched with) to the host. To do this, click on the Settings button, and select Remote Management. Tick the box that says Allow Citrix to assume the user name and password of the Windows service account that runs the image. Horizon Cloud
