recap offers other features such as zoomable and annotatable images, wizard interfaces for editing and cleaning, and expandable databases. the camera options are quite extensive, including functions such as resetting the gps or even recording the city as your scan is being done. once you have finished your scan, you can close the screen and choose finish to complete your project. you can then edit or clean the data, add labels, and determine what recap filters you want to apply. recap then takes the data and formats it into an xml file ready for viewing in the arcgis online mapping and data visualization tool. this software is a must-have for anyone who needs to create high-resolution imagery. it works as a step-by-step, easy-to-use, and stable tool. with a free license, you can use it at school, at your office, or even with colleagues. recap is an effective and practical tool that can be used to gather information about buildings, roads, and even people. this product is also available in a paid version (with a license key included) that allows you to add ai technology. because this is a point cloud data analysis tool, recap can be used with any application that can load or analyze point cloud data, including pointcloudlab, pointcloudanalyzer, slicer3d, and even those for point cloud editing and research. data can be uploaded to the cloud. the data can be shared with others in your organization, or even with the public. as for online public use, recap can be used to upload data to the usgs aerial images map of the world.
