
[FSX] - Turbine Sound Studios Airbus A330 GE And P W Fix

an engineless aircraft might sound just a little bit scary, so we should note these planes wont be used commercially anytime soon. this particular engineless aircraft works by riding mountain waves the glider needs to reach several thousand feet in altitude, using a tow plane and cable, before it is released on its own to ride the andes mountain waves. with a lot of focus on the toliss a321 (which is very good by the way) the earlier a319-100 has sort of been pushed into the background. the tiddler airbus (only the a318 with low sales is slightly smaller) is an interesting aircraft as with it's size it is sublime to fly (yes an airbus can be fun to fly manually). so here is actually an unexpected update in v1.5. here however the original source of the sounds on the a319 from the ever growing turbine sound studios have been converted and enhanced in the fmod system for the iae engine with new sounds such as door opening/closing, electric hydraulic pump, brake fans, and many more, this pack is now part of the a319 package and a us$10.00 price increase has been added to the purchase price. to current purchasers the update is still free, for everyone else you still save us$3.95 over purchasing the package separately. these models will use high-definition 4096x4096 textures for their liveries, with various other graphical treats like animated engine fans, aircraft effects, and the ability to make use of the airport facilities the same way a player aircraft can. even their sound packages are getting the professional treatment from the folks over at turbine sound studios.
