There are no specific settings that can be changed after the VPN profile is configured using PowerShell. The only thing that can be changed is the layout. By default, the connections are saved as per-project XML files. If you use one project, you can change the default connection type to something else (such as per-folder XML). Otherwise, the connections must be updated using PowerShell. There is a version for the Mac. The Windows version cannot be "cloned". If you want to use the Mac version, go to https://www.sapiens-ws.com/sapiensstudio/register/ to register with a license key. The build action for a script in PowerShell Studio should be either Content or Module. This determines how PowerShell Studio treats the code when it generates a script from it. The default option for a script is set to Module. If you click the View button in the script editor, you will see the available build actions. By default, the build action for a script is set to Content. Review the generated reports. Save your script at a location of your choice. Launch PowerShell Studio and then open your created script using the Script button at the top of the editor. Save your changes, using the Save button, and then click the Test button to execute your script. PowerShell, the scripting language that runs on Windows operating systems, makes it easy to write, run, and manage programs. It lets you automate routine tasks, process large amounts of data, and create anything that can be done with your desktop, as well as on the Web. Powershell syntax is similar to Perl, C++, C#, and Java, allowing it to interact with scripts written for these languages. It extends the ability to remotely access and manage desktops across an organization's network. You can use native Windows features to build programs in Windows
