1. PASVAC(Plus Atlantic) : this is my 'overall' favorite. It has the best voice quality and the widest variety of voices. It also has many new features that have not yet been tested by other users. For example: very good, and fairly accurate vocal pitch emulation.

Mastered voice quality of the input wav file. 2.

PASVAC(Plus Atlantic) + vocaLAB (CD Quality) : this combination uses the best of both - good variety of voices and excellent voice quality.

To a lesser extent, vocaLAB adds a second channel - the vocal quality of which is also excellent. If you choose to download a wav file from vocaLAB, be sure to select 'Auto-download the best wav file' option, otherwise you will not be able to use the voices from vocaLAB. 3.

PASVAC(Plus Atlantic) + Narrator: Narrator is similar to vocaLAB, in that it also uses two channels - one for the actual recording, and one for the quality of that voice. Narrator sounds similar to the voices from vocaLAB, but has a slightly higher pitch and less subtle vocal quality than the voices from vocaLAB. vocaLAB sounds very similar to the voices from PASVAC(Plus Atlantic) and Narrator. 4. vocaLAB : This is a very good sounding voice, but cannot be used as an input to PASVAC or Narrator. It is simply an input, and the best of all voices (in my opinion). Note that it is only an input, and does not come with the PASVAC and Narrator tools.

5. Neutral: Neutral is a combination of all the voices from PASVAC and Narrator (and vocaLAB). It sounds about average, and is of good quality. Note that all of these voices are also available for the voices in PASVAC, and in the menus on the right. 6.

Voxware : Voxware has 6 voices, and is not as good as PASVAC or Narrator in the variety of voices. However, if you want a voice from Voxware, just use the input button and select it. It sounds very good. 7. Basic : Basic is a very bad sounding voice, but is very easy to use. This voice is included to make the installation go faster, and may be available for the voices in PASVAC and VocaTalk is a free desktop software program that can generate personal podcasts with sound effects and music in the background. You copy and paste any content, select music and effects, generate episode, and download to your iPod, Zune or any mp3 player. If the content is too large, VocaTalk will automatically split it into episodes of 50-60 minutes.

VocaTalk uses digital signal processing technology to massage the generated speech. Listening to a VocaTalk episode is much more comfortable and fun than raw TTS (text-to-speech) technology. Integrates with iTunes and Zune directly using podcasting technology. Generated mp3 files are always in CD quality (44.1 KHz, stereo). VocaTalk is designed to make reading and learning experience fun and efficient for people who read and learn a lot, or people who want to do so but have no time. Students, engineers, teachers, doctors or anyone who wants to keep himself/herself up to date with information in a fun way can use VocaTalk. A VocaTalk episode is based on whatever you chose it to be. You just give the content to VocaTalk and chose music and effects. VocaTalk will read the text as it plays the music in the background. VocaTalk will use all available voices installed on your system randomly so you don't get bored by listening to the same voice especially during long hours of listening. It's like a documentary audio that is narrated by multiple speakers. VocaTalk will leave periods of silence between paragraphs to make the listening experience closer to a documentary. The background music makes it also fun and engaging. In order to make the listening even more comfortable, keep the focus and attract the attention, VocaTalk uses some sound effects and enhancements to the generated mp3. There are a number of different effects that you can turn on and off. For example positional audio effect moves the sound position of the speakers smoothly and changes depth, echo and pitch of the sound.

Take a picture of a skull and it's not unusual for the image to start looking like it's in black and white. No matter how you look at it, it just doesn't look quite right. A little brighter, maybe a little more intense, and the image would be in color. The same thing applies to a skull print. Our selection of bone prints are hand-crafted to match the originals as much as possible.

Therefore, you will be amazed at the finished print's intense color! Sorry, but we ran into issues loading these options. Please try refreshing.

Product Overview This simple and stylish shelf provides a practical place to organize your books, magazines and other items that tend to collect. Its grid design keeps your items from rolling off, and its textured bottom is gentle on floors. Customer Reviews Rated 3 out of 5 by MasterDaniel from Needs to be stained- I did this project myself in my basement with an old and worn down rug that had pet hair, and other filth on it. I cleaned the rug and started, only to find that the rug was much too small. Not to mention the pet hair, and stains. The shelf was too small to really use, and the pet hair and stains just made it look worse. I was disappointed. It has a certain style to it and it looks nice, but I still didn't like it. It was very cheaply made and started peeling in the first three days. It was in a cabinet and all the contents started falling out. It was an utter failure. I couldn't even use it.
