Perhaps it's because it's been around so long and I'm not new to the craft of photo editing. The interface has always been deceptively simple. There are a few buttons on the top left-hand corner that I am not fond of, but that's about it. Keep in mind this is just my personal preference and I understand if you hate that part of the interface. I've been putting this together for years, it's really hard to try to change. Hopefully Adobe will not make a drastic change to the interface but I have a feeling they will at some point.
